Welding Students Still Complain

by Bruce Benson

Students in the welding and metalwork programs at the Red River College have been complaining about the welding fumes in the welding shop. The welding students have noticed that the ventilation system is not very good, and they believe that the fumes are affecting their health. One student, who asked that their name not be published, said that the fumes are making it difficult to work in the shop.

"I find it hard to work in the welding shop," the student said. "The fumes are so thick that it feels like I'm breathing through a hose." Another student, who also asked not to be identified, said that he had been experiencing headaches and nosebleeds since he started welding.

The students have been trying to get the situation resolved, but they feel that the administration is not doing enough. Brian Smoluk, Business Manager at the college, said that the college is aware of the problem and is taking steps to improve the ventilation system.

"We are working to upgrade the ventilation system," Smoluk said. "We have plans to install new filters and improve the airflow, but it will take some time to get it done." The students are hoping that the college will do more to address their concerns and that the administration will take their health seriously.

Error

Last time, we printed a letter from Business Administration Professor Dr. R. K. Hemphill. Due to our error in presenting the letter, it was not published in its entirety. The complete letter follows:

"I would like to express my concern about the quality of education being offered at the college. Many of the courses I have taken have not been up to par, and I feel that the students are not being adequately prepared for the workforce. I have spoken with several colleagues who share my concerns, and we all agree that there is a need for reform in the curriculum.

"I would like to suggest that the college consider implementing a review of the courses offered, with a focus on ensuring that they are relevant and up-to-date. I also believe that the college should consider providing more opportunities for students to engage in hands-on learning, as I believe that this is an essential component of a well-rounded education.

"I hope that the college will take my concerns seriously and take steps to improve the quality of education being offered at the college. I believe that the students deserve a high-quality education, and I am committed to working towards this goal."

Student Aid

For Africa Sparks Optimism

by Brad Oswald

For Africa Aid turned out to be the biggest event of the year for organizers hoped it would be. According to Student Aid Director Steve Maitland, the event raised between $4000 and $4500 for African relief causes. Maitland said the event was a success and that the organizers hoped to raise more money in the future.

Chocolate Bunnies From Hell.

The event was described as "The best of the bunch." This success has been disappointing, and entertaining, another has featured Winnipeg bands Club Runner cartoon style. Cute, but without the cliché. The A-Team has always been weird. Quite possibly, 1985 will go down as a great year for the show. Along with their usual fare of a Hollywood outlaw, a description of a woman that enables her to see through a wall of an Army/Navy store, a bounty hunter, for Saturday students and staff are invited. There is no official count of how many people attended, but it is estimated that several thousand showed up. It is not the reason for my attendance, but it is what I came for. The Road Warrior was a huge hit.

What's Up?

Here's another quick look in what's up, what's going on. There are three episodes of each had introduced three new series. This success has been disappointing, and entertaining, another has featured Winnipeg bands Club Runner cartoon style. Cute, but without the cliché. The A-Team has always been weird. Arnold Belongs in Silent Films

by Brad Oswald

In the first two minutes of the movie, the movie gets to a guy running into a car. His head is so big that the car doesn't have room for his head man packing up, and another character dan. A car automaton runs over him by own car, and an exploding bomb. One is more unpicking extras. Arnold Schwarzenegger's latest role little makes sense, other than to open the new real fun and destruction starts. For the money, it's created and produced by the same team. Record Reviews

by Dave Blaith

D'M职ta has done it again. Can you believe it?

D'M职ta has not only a great new disc, but a great new lineup, too! The band members have increased from four to five, and they've added some Hammond B3 Organ to their sound. This is a real treat for fans of the band, and it's sure to please anyone who enjoys a good rock and roll performance.

This is the second album from the band, and it shows a definite improvement over their first disc. The musicianship is tighter, and the songs are more varied. I particularly enjoyed the opener, "My Friend," which has a great solo from the Hammond B3 Organ. The overall sound is heavier and more rock-oriented than on the first disc.

Check out D'M职ta's new disc, "Rockin' the House," if you're a fan of rock and roll. You won't be disappointed!

The band members include Mike Smith, vocals; Rick Johnson, guitar; Tom Green, bass; and Joe Brown, drums. The disc is produced by Bob Johnson, and it was recorded at the famous Club Ginger in New York City.

Siberian Tour Stops Nov. 1

by Bruce Owen

ZILLIONAIRE's new release, "Live in Siberia," is a must-see for fans of the band. The album features live recordings from Siberia, and it captures the energy of the band on stage. The sound quality is excellent, and the performances are top-notch. I particularly enjoyed the opener, "Ode to Joy," which has a great energy and a strong bass line.

This is a great release for fans of ZILLIONAIRE, and it's sure to please anyone who enjoys live music. The band members include Jake Smith, vocals; Mark Johnson, guitar; and Tom Green, bass.

Check out ZILLIONAIRE's "Live in Siberia" if you're a fan of live music. You won't be disappointed!

The Manitoba Genealogical Society (MGS) is a great resource for anyone interested in family history. The society has a wealth of information and resources, and it provides a wealth of support for members. I recently attended a workshop at the MGS, and I was amazed at the amount of information and resources available. The society has a membership of over 1,000, and it is home to one of the largest genealogical collections in Canada.

A genealogy is not just a family tree; it's a history of the family. The society has a wealth of resources to help you with your family history research, including a library, a genealogy centre, and a quarterly newsletter. The society also has a membership directory, and it provides a wealth of support for members.

Men's Basketball Looks For Winning Season
by Ed Tait

This year's men's basketball team will feature quite a few new players and a new team attitude, head coach Brad Matheson said recently.

Last year's team, which lost 16 of 22 matches, was considered the weakest in Red River College history. Matheson said the team was not united and did not play well together.

The Rebel's roster this year includes many new players, but Matheson said the team is more motivated and ready to play.

The ball in All-House members said that the Rebels were not as strong as they were last year. Matheson said, "as a team we are more motivated to play."

The team's 1985-86 budget was less than 30 percent of the rebels' 1984-85 budget.

In the Winnipeg Men's Senior League, the Rebels feature a more disciplined style of offense as opposed to the nightcrawler's type offense.

The Lady Rebels' volleyball team is only concerned with the junior college level this year, but indicated that they will be more interested in the university level next year.

The team there's been a few new faces on the court, and along with the new faces, the coach at the time, had only one player returning to the team. Steve Anderson, the Lady Rebels' head coach, said that he needed some more players to fill out the team to play well.

Mr. Boyd Matheson, Brad Matheson's father and he is looking for some of the new faces to work habits rub off on his team and become successful.

The four stars returning for the University of Manitoba junior volleyball team were pleased with the improved work habits among the players this year.

Volleyball, flag football intramurals winding down
by Heather Leask

Although the intramural schedule at the beginning of the month showed the flag football schedule, it was discontinued according to Ray Pollock, intramural director.

"We lost about 4 or 5 players because of the weather," Pollock said. "But we put in some extra effort to mark the field and away to play." Pollock said that both volleyball and flag football are still played for the first week of November.

Although Pollock said that the intramural activities will start with flag football, he said that after this week, the Christmas break will start and that the activities will be postponed.
